The Joint Programming Initiative on Cultural Heritage and Global Change (JPI CH) is pleased to propose this dissemination event, organised in collaboration with the Palace of Versailles, gathering 22 researchers to discuss the results of their transnational research projects funded by the JPI CH. Moderated and animated by experts from the JPI CH Scientific and Advisory Board, the five sessions will explore the impact of these research projects and showcase the role of cultural heritage research in addressing global challenges and shaping future cultural, social, economic, and environmental policies.

Please refer to the end of the programme for logistical details on accessing the venue.
